

Megan Stuart-Steer

Senior Associate | tax, fintech
mstuart-steer@ENSAfrica.com mobile +27 82 382 8963

"the best way to predict the future is to invent it"

practical experience

Megan Stuart-Steer is a Senior Associate in the Tax department at ENSAfrica. She regularly advises corporates on the tax and exchange control implications of mergers and acquisitions (on-shore as well as large-scale offshore), funding arrangements, tax dispute resolution and more.

She acts for clients across a broad spectrum of industries, including property, retail, advertising and financial services.

In addition, Megan is a member of a dedicated ENSAfrica team specialising in the commercial, financial, legal, tax and regulatory aspects relevant to employee and management remuneration, benefits and incentives. This team services blue chip South African corporates in the listed and unlisted space, designing and implementing incentive plans to achieve their desired commercial outcomes. The team also advises numerous international specialised services and law firms on an ad hoc and annual basis in relation to their multinational clients operating incentive plans across the African continent.

Megan also specialises in the tax and exchange control implications of transactions involving crypto assets and has a personal interest in the establishment of and tax-related relief granted to public benefit organisations.

qualifications

- LLB (University of Stellenbosch)
- LLM in Tax Law (University of Cape Town)
- Admitted as an attorney of the High Court of South Africa